Abstract

The Ministry of Research and Science in North Rhine–Westphalia published guidelines for evaluation in universities. At Bonn university, based on the goals of a project called ‘Studienreform 2000+’, a systematic approach for evaluation was developed allowing the regular and standardised participation of students, alumni, and scientific staff. The procedure permits the illustration of progress in dealing with strengths and weaknesses across time and the presentation of differences between fields of study, departments and universities.
